elvang

Responsibly produced textiles since 2003

We create responsibly produced textiles which combine timeless Nordic design with exquisite craftsmanship.

Our story is one of ethics, integrity and respect. It began in 2002, when we learned about the qualities of alpaca wool during a backpacking trip to Peru. Struck by its softness and durability, we set about blending elegant, pared-back aesthetics with centuries-old Peruvian weaving traditions, forging strong relationships with artisans, community projects and mills. A year later ELVANG was born, becoming the first company to introduce throws made of alpaca wool to Scandinavia.

Today, our collections are sold in numerous countries worldwide, but our social and environmental commitment remains unchanged. Making responsible choices lies at the heart of everything we do, from securing better pay for alpaca shepherds and employee benefits for weavers to reducing transport emissions, recycling packaging and repurposing fibres. This has led to the highest possible level of recognition within the World Fair Trade Organization (WFTO) as a Guaranteed Member and participation in the UN Global Compact Initiative, ensuring that our supply chains and business model put people, the planet and animals first.

Carte Postale throws

Design by Inga Sempé

Recycled alpaca wool & sheep wool
130 x 200 cm/ 51x79 inches. Weight: app. 560 g

The Carte Postale collection is designed by Inga Sempé.
Carte Postale has a graphic pattern consisting only of dual-coloured surfaces that meet each other in the middle. The colours are clear, yet enigmatic; they run together like watercolours—a soft pink that fades into a bright red, or a blue that brightens more and more the closer it gets to the edge of the throw.

Écru Highland throw Design by Cecilie Manz

70% baby alpaca and 30% Peruvian highland wool
130 x 200 cm/ 51x79 inches. Weight: app. 900 g

The throw called Écru Highland is designed by Danish Cecilie Manz. Écru Highland throw has a high weight, a powerful expression and details in the weave structure. The design is based on the outer edge, or selvedge, found on woven textiles. With Écru Highland, designer Cecilie Manz has transformed the selvedge from a practical necessity in textile production into a discreet and elegant motif. On the throws, the stripe is just a little more marked and lies as a single dotted line along the edge, resembling a simple, coloured seam.

Écru Baby Alpaca throws Design by Cecilie Manz

100% baby alpaca
130 x 207 cm/ 51x 82 inches. Weight app. 600 g

The collection called Écru is designed by Danish Cecilie Manz and consists of three throws. They differ from each other both in the base colour and in the discreet stripes along the edges that vary in both weave and colour, giving each throw its own unique identity. The throws come in three classic basic colours - a soft beige, an off-white and a brown. All are the natural colours of baby alpaca wool, which means that the fibres are not dyed.

Lava throws

89% superfine alpaca wool/11% nylon
130 x 190 cm/ 51x75 inches. Weight app 540 g

The throw named Lava is bombastic and warm, just like the volcanic lava it is named after; one of nature's most fascinating phenomena. The material is a mix of soft alpaca wool with a small amount of nylon, but it's the yarn that gives the surface its special character. It's a bouclé type, characterised by small loops that give extra volume and create a characteristic fluffy surface that retains warmth without compromising on lightness. Lava is available in three beautiful versions with wide coloured stripes that meet on a warm cream background - a modern moss green and pink, an elegant blue-grey and brown, and the more classic navy and sky blue.

River throws

Recycled alpaca wool & sheep wool
130 x 200 cm/ 51x79 inches. Weight: app. 560 g

Stripes are an eternally relevant motif - timeless, elegant and versatile. The River throw is all that and more, of course. The graphic pattern suits most interiors, and the exceptionally light and delicate weave with its soft surface makes the throw the obvious choice when you both need to keep warm and enjoy wrapping yourself in a material that doesn't feel heavy, yet hugs your body tightly and securely. The throw comes in a delicate light grey combined with an ivory white that further adds to the feeling of understated luxury.

Hope throws

Pure sheep wool
130 x 200 cm/ 51x79 inches. Weight: app. 850 g

The Hope collection is woven in Ukraine. The pattern of the throw consists of straight rows of a classic motif reminiscent of corn or sprouting plants - a beautiful reference to the country with its agriculture and magnificent nature. Hope is launched in six colours.

Hope is woven from 100% wool - a natural material that has countless advantages. First and foremost, sheep's wool is warm but also breathable, which allows for better heat regulation than is possible with synthetic fabrics. Furthermore, wool retains heat even if it's damp. In fact, wool can absorb as much as 30% moisture without affecting warmth.
